Re: Recognition of Robert Griego, Planning Manager on Receiving the Citizen Planner Award from Western Planning.

Western Planner recognized Robert Griego with the Citizen Planner Award at the Tribal Planning/Western Planner Conference in Ft. Hall, Idaho, on August 7th. Western planning is a professional organization connecting planners practicing throughout the Western United States. The award recognizes a professional planner who has distinguished themselves as a champion and leader of a program that embodies the principles of planning. The individual demonstrates exceptional skill at problem identification and solving, process development and implementation, and/or public outreach and communication. Above all, the planner will have conducted themselves with humor and compassion towards those they strive to benefit.

Robert was nominated for this award because of his long-standing commitment to the communities of Santa Fe County. In particular, Robert is being recognized for his in-depth work with residents and stakeholders in developing community plans. Robert has also been working intensively on supporting local agricultural heritage and future opportunities for agricultural innovation. Through his long-standing, well-established relationships with community members, Robert has been able to build trust and better communication between the public and the County.
